1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10,24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Rozon '779. Rozon '779 discloses an architectural covering comprising a cord 10,12, a slotted cord encapsulating member 14,15, a locking member 28,30 having a link 37 selectively engaged with or disengaged from the cord encapsulating member 14,15 to inhibit or permit movement of the locking member 28,30 and the cord 10,12 relative to the cord encapsulating member 14,15.

2. Claims 21-23,25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Huang '832. Huang '832 discloses an architectural covering comprising a cord encapsulating member 10,70, a cord 400, a locking member 40 connected to the cord 400 and moveable with respect to the cord encapsulating member 10,70.

3. The applicant argues that in Rozon '779 the cord is an endless loop, the element that is selectively gripped by the clamping member is one or the other of the two strands of the cord, and the clamps are normally released with clamping being required to move the cords for adjustment of the blind wherein in contrast the independent claims 1 and 21 require that the cord has a free end, the element that is selectively clamped is the encapsulating member, and the clamping or locking member is normally engaged to prevent movement. This is not convincing inasmuch as the endless loop of Rozon '779 is disposed outside of the window covering it is a free end, the locking members 28,30 are normally engaged with the cord encapsulating member 14,15 as they are disposed within the slots of the cord encapsulating for selective movement therein.

The applicant states that Huang '832 differs from amended independent claim 21 in that the element that is gripped by the locking members 22,42 is the control cord, not the cord encapsulating member, and that the locking members 22,42 are connected to portions of the sleeve 70 and not to the free end of the cord for movement therewith. This is not convincing for the tapered central hole 22 of Huang '832 is an element of the cord encapsulating member and the control cord is connected to the locking member 40 inasmuch as it engages the groove 43.

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
